FAILURE.

There is no such thing as utter failure to one who has done his best. Were this truth more often emphasized there would be more courage and energy infused into sad and desponding hearts. The compensation may seem shadowy and afar off, but it is not so. It attends every one who is conscientious, painstaking and resolute and will never desert him, whatever may be the fate of his exertions in other respects.

Military Diagnosis.

A nurse related as a true story of a soldier's wit that a soldier in a hospital on recovering consciousness said, "Nurse, what is this on my head?" "Vinegar cloths," she replied. "You have had fever."

After a pause: "And what is this on my chest?" "A mustard plaster. You have had pneumonia."

"And what is this at my feet?" "Salt bags. You have had frost bites."

A soldier from the next bed looked up and said:

"Hang a pepper box to his nose, nurse; then he will be a cruet."—London Strand Magazine.

Left.

Jack—I hear you had some money left you. Tom—Yes, it left me quite awhile ago.—Boston Transcript.

Base Insinuation.

Book Agent—Madam, have you read Bunyan's—Mrs. Poper—No, you impudent man, nor even corns!

Mourning in Japan.

The Japanese code of mourning is very elaborate and complicated. As followed by the well to do classes it involves the wearing of special garments and abstinence from animal food. At the death of a husband or real or adopted parents the custom demands thirteen months of mourning apparel and fifty days' abstinence from meat. Grandparents are honored by 150 days if they are on the paternal side; if only common, insignificant maternal grandparents, they have to put up with ninety. The same rule applies to maternal uncles and aunts. It is one way of introducing the oriental contempt for women.

Washed Gasoline.

Wash the gasoline before using it to remove spots from garments and there will be no more unsightly circles such as are often seen after the cleansing process is completed with the unwashed gasoline.

Put the required amount of gasoline in a glass jar and add an equal amount of soapy water, then shake thoroughly. Let stand a few minutes and the dirt and water will settle to the bottom of the jar, leaving the gasoline on top. Turn off the gasoline, and it is ready for use.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Contrition.

"It's not so much that I fooled as that in my rage I struck the caddy with my brassie!" said the golf person.

Her entourage besought her never called, as to whether he

"Never mind," the lovely girl exclaimed. "You seem not to realize that the best usage called for the masher!"

—Boston Journal.

FEED AND CARE OF THE DAIRY HEIFER

Although the first few months of the heifer's life are the most critical period of her existence, many are stunted, due to lack of attention after being weaned.

It is a rather common practice to have cows calve in the spring, yet this is not usually the best time. It is a fact that a calf born in the fall will get a better start in life than one born in the spring.

It makes little difference in the rate of growth of a calf whether it has pasture or has only dry feed in connection with its milk. But after weaning time the calf that has pasture will make by far the cheaper and more rapid growth. A fall calf will also be ready for breeding so that it will drop its own calf in the fall at the age of about two years.

Until a calf is weaned it receives a liberal allowance of protein in its milk, but when milk is removed from the ration it is necessary to supply protein in some other form, such as legume hay or a high protein concentrate. It is advisable to keep the heifer in a thrifty, growing condition, although there is no need of fattening her. However, if she does become rather plump it will not injure her dairy qualities.

If fed so as to produce a thrifty growth, yet not produce fat, dairy heifers will gain on an average close to one pound daily from the age of six months up to two years, or calving time.

The Guernsey cow does not stand for beauty, but for profit. What breeders are vitally concerned in is to conserve and to improve that enviable quality possessed by the Guernsey cow of producing milk which is not only rich, but which possesses a rich, creamy color and from which the highest scoring butter can be churned. The pure bred Guernsey cow here shown is an excellent type of the breed. She is a large producer of milk and butter.

For heifers from six to twelve months old the following rations will give good results:

Ration 1.—About two pounds daily of a mixture of seventy-five pounds corn chop and twenty-five pounds bran; all the alfalfa hay the heifer will eat.

Ration 2.—Six to ten pounds silage; about two pounds daily of a grain mixture of forty pounds corn chop, forty pounds linseed meal or cottonseed meal and twenty pounds bran; all the alfalfa hay the heifer will eat.

For heifers one to two years old the following rations are finely adapted:

Ration 1.—About three pounds of corn daily; all the alfalfa hay the heifer will eat.

Ration 2.—Corn silage, twelve to twenty pounds; about three pounds daily of a grain mixture of equal parts corn chop, bran and linseed meal or cottonseed meal; all the alfalfa hay the heifer will eat.

The proper age at which to breed a heifer will depend very largely upon the size and thrift of the animal, as well as upon the breed.—Bulletin Nebraska Experiment Station.

Parsnips For Dairy Cows.

Most all root crops are excellent stimulant food for dairy cattle. Parsnips rank close to the top, because they are richer in food nutrient than most of the other roots. Unless cows are being fed exceptionally well the addition of parsnips or any other roots will cause them to increase in their milk flow. If parsnips can be raised or purchased at a cost within reason we recommend very highly their use.—Kimball's Dairy Farmer.

Washing the Butter.

Wash the butter once with pure water at the churning temperature, agitating three or four times, and drain. Wash a second time with water about 4 degrees above churning temperature, agitating seven or eight times, and drain.—Worcester Telegram.

No Was Worried.

She—I suppose you will have no objection to having mamma live with us after our marriage? He—None at all. In fact, I have thought we might simplify matters by going to live with the old lady.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Servian Women.

A considerable share of labor on farms is taken by the Servian women, who also weave the homely material for their clothes. The women are valued highly for their services, so much so that parents not infrequently are unwilling to see their daughters marry. Hence in Servia wives are often older than their husbands.

HARMFUL REST.

Let us beware that our rest become not the rest of stones, which so long as they are tormented tossed maintain their majesty, but when the stream is silent and the storm passed suffer the grass to cover them and the lichen to feed upon them and are plowed down into the dust.—Ruskin.

Fleas.

Pulex irritans, which, by the way, is Latin and means the flea that pesters humans, can jump, according to one Mitzmahn, a horizontal distance of thirteen inches and a vertical space of eight inches. Now, on the other hand, that puny brat, the Indian rat flea, and we have the word of the Indian plague commission for it, can broad jump only a pindling five inches and kicks the bar off the uprights if sent at a high mark of more than three inches and an eighth.

Spotted.

"Conductor, put me off at Main and Fifth."
"Sorry, sir, but we aren't allowed to put off anybody except for refusal to pay fare or disorderly conduct. When the car reaches your destination I'll give the motorman the bell and then I'll indicate to you where you are to step off."

"You used to be on a Boston car, didn't you?"
"I was employed in that capacity in that city for twelve consecutive months. Seventh! Step lively."
"Ah, I see that you must have had a job in New York as well."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Pemmican.

Pemmican, the staple food of arctic explorers, is made from the flesh and fat of bison.
